What is London Festival of Architecture and Breaking Boundaries?

The London Festival of Architecture is 'the world's biggest annual architecture festival in the world's capital city for architecture'

The theme this year is 'breaking boundaries'.

Paul Vick architects, Most Innovative Architecture Firm London 2019 and 2018 (AI Awards) brings you four one off events in their Breaking Boundaries series for London Festival of Architecture to explore innovation and what it means for you and your City. The events are located in buildings that Paul Vick has had a close design relationship with. The series gives an intimate picture of how the invisible structures of the work within the building and the visible structures of the architecture where the event is held, together continue to break the boundaries of our perceptions and lives. Presentations are by practitioners, Client and architect, informing our current thinking and challenging us about what we want for the future.

BB5. BREAKING BOUNDARIES. IS YOUR HOME GOOD FOR YOU?

What is the value of a home that allows you to live longer? What is the value of one that sets the stage to enable the environment for our children to last? What is the value of a place that promotes an uplifting flow of space and light that engages with our wider worlds? The event describes how 1st Age to 3rd Age living, low energy and beautiful places can be created to give legacy from the intimate scale with existing and new buildings.
